POSITIVE AND NEGATIVE ASPECTS

What did I enjoy most?

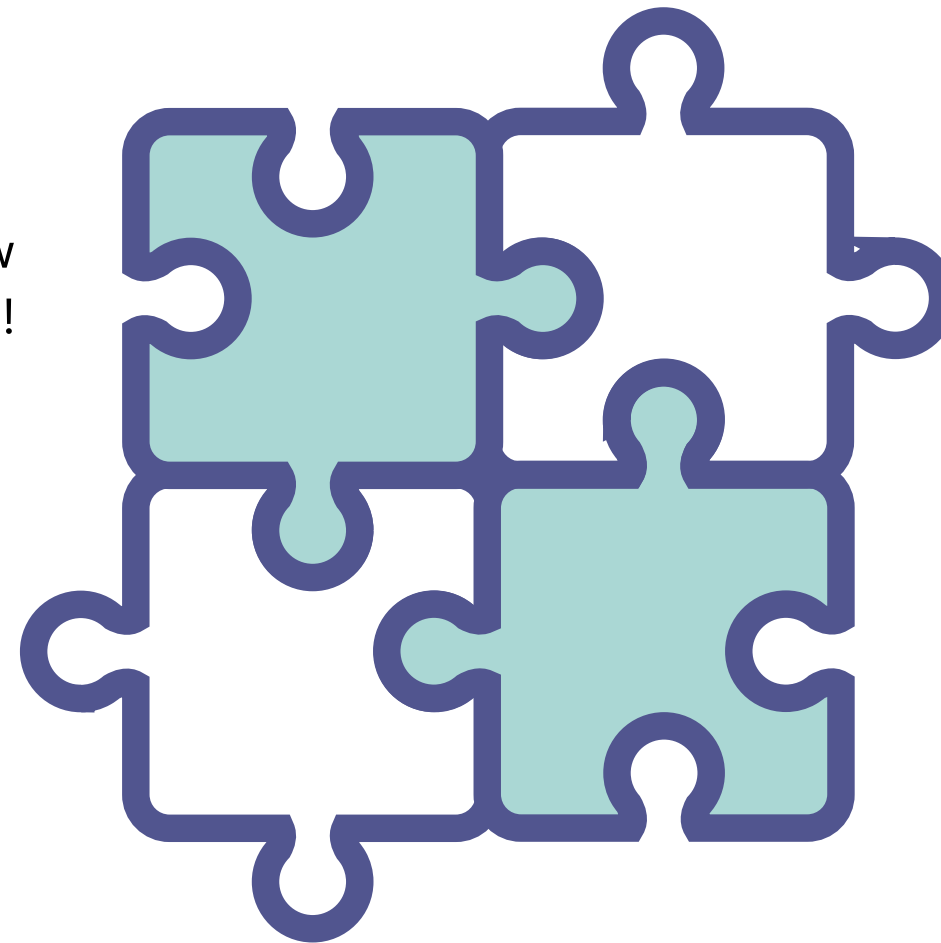

Meeting new people and discovering new sides of myself made me enthusiastic! Every moment was precious!

Challenges

Adapting to a different routine and work rhythm. I stayed flexible, watched how others worked and asked questions until it felt natural.

Analysis

Difficulties

Being sick or just feeling off sometimes made adapting more difficult, but I rested when I needed and focused on small daily goals to keep going.

Personal balance

I became more confident, independent and comfortable stepping out of my comfort zone.

BEST MEMORY

The best memory of this month was when my manager gave me the keys to the store because it made me feel part of the team and recognized. The most important thing for him is trust, and I earned it.

PERSONAL GROWTH & FUTURE

Global prospective

By observing and talking with people around me I shared opinions that helped me broden my mind.

Confidence

Sometimes the fear of failure stops me, but I faced it during my internship and proved to myself that I am capable of overcoming challenges.

Indipendence

Managing daily life, solving problems on my own, committing my mistakes helped me become more responsible and aware.

Self discovery

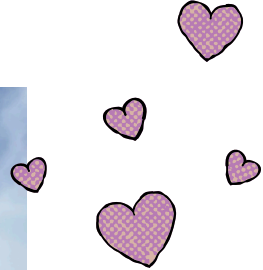

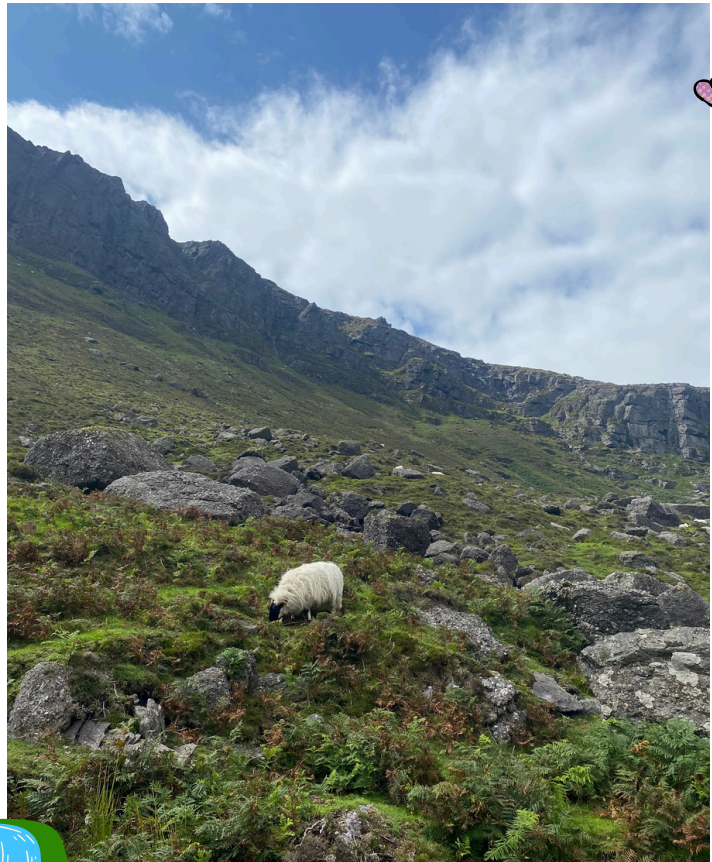

I recognized my strenghts, resiliences and ability to adapt to new situations. I've learned that bad times are part of life and the importance of communication.

Career readiness

I realized that I like working in a team and staying with people not behinf a computer because I like the dynamism.
